A POLICE RAID IS MADE ON MEXICANS

Promiscuous Carrying of Arms Believed Responsible For Many Murders.

Approximately 800 persons in South El Paso were searched for arms between 8:30 and 10 o'clock Wednesday night by mounted policemen and patrolmen headed by police chief I. N. Davis and sergeant G. E. Fletcher, and city detectives under chief Jesse C. Stansel. Five arrests resulted. Abel Molina and Jose Lopez were arrested for having pistols; Margarito Mesa and Jesus Dario, for dirks; private Rutherford, for "brass knucks"; F. Ellis, a negro, for having a razor. With the exception of Lopez, who the police say was in a saloon, the others were picked up on the streets. The weapons taken, with the exception of one pistol, the police say, were all new. The search for concealed weapons included all the territory south of San Antonio street, practically to the river, taking in South Stanton street and South El Paso street, and the intersecting streets. Every saloon and pool hall embraced in that district was entered by the officers and the inmates searched. "I believe," declared police chief I. N. Davis, "that the promiscuous carrying of weapons in a large degree is responsible for murders. This is the idea that prompted the search for weapons. Persons who are authorized should not be permitted to carry guns, and every effort should be made to apprehend such persons. I hope that the persons we arrest on pistol and dirk charges will be vigorously prosecuted. I am confident that the arrests for this offence and a vigorous prosecution will tend to put an end to the illegal carrying of weapons."

HOLDS NEW TARIFF UP TO CRITICISM

Woolgrowers' President, Hagenbarth, Points Out Difficulties That Confront American Sheepmen.
Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 15.—The new tariff placing wool on the free list was held up to criticism when the delegates of the National Woolgrowers' association marked the 50th year of the association's existence at their annual convention here. The address by the president of the organization, Frank J. Hagenbarth, pointed out that for the "third time in a century of national progress the woolmaster is free and unlimited competition in the production of wool against the whole world," that previous experience had proved the woolgrower's inability to withstand the shock, and that the outcome of the present experiment was doubtful. On Unequal Terms. "The flockmaster is reduced," he said, "to the necessity of striving on unequal terms with the half-civilized savage of South Africa and Asia, the keenest of New Zealand and Australia, whose flocks are shown under the fostering care of their respective governments. Like Napoleon, after the battle of Waterloo, the shepherd faces the necessity for organizing his broken battalions for a last stand against hopeless odds. However, it is an American characteristic never to say quit." In analysis of the tariff he declared that it was "decidedly an alignment of the east and south against the west" and asserted that 80 percent of the products of New Jersey would be found on the dutiable list, whereas but 9 percent of the products of Arizona and 12 percent of the products of Nevada were so favored.

Producer Entitled to Respect. "The backbone of the strength of the nation is the producer," he continued. "The producer is the farmer or the miner. He who takes from the soil of the earth and the waters thereof, and who takes from the sky with its sun and its air, and from those primary elements brings wealth into the world, is alone entitled to the kindly title, 'producer.' The rest of mankind either directly or indirectly, are parasites living off the fruits of his labor. Yet the underlying principle of the present tariff act has been to favor the manufacturer and middleman on the theory that the producer is able to take care of himself. In other words, the parasite is more important than the body on which it feeds."

Arbitrary Changes. "As a further criticism of the tariff act of October 3, 1913, the statement can conservatively be made that, after all, it was written hastily and with improper preparation and information. The labor of Messrs. Underwood and Clark and their associates in the preparation of a consistent tariff act, which covered a year or more of unremitting toil, was hurriedly dispensed with when Mr. Bryan and Mr. Wilson came into power and wrote 'free wool, free sugar and free cattle' in place of the paragraphs that had been prepared theretofore by Mr. Underwood. These changes were arbitrarily made and the tariff act is a hodgepodge of paragraphs that had been prepared theretofore by Mr. Underwood. Under the new law, the grower of Merino wool will be sacrificed to the benefit of the manufacturer of the ranks of American industry. The mutton producer may be able to survive, but even this is problematical at this time."

The acting is perfect, the photography clear as crystal, the settings well chosen and the story extremely good." Advertisement.

Oppose Woman For Job She Does Not Want

DR. S. JOSEPHINE BAKER.
New York, Jan. 15.—My work I consider the most important in the health department, and I have not even considered taking examinations for the posts of either general medical officer or sanitary superintendent. Both of these posts may pay better salaries than I am now getting, but you know we all don't work wholly for money. This statement was made by Dr. S. Josephine Baker, head of the bureau of child hygiene, when she was informed that there was opposition in the health department to her taking the civil service examination for either of these positions on the grounds that they should be held by men. Dr. Baker made it plain, however, that her sex would not deter her in trying for the places if she desired either.

WANT TO "CLEAN UP" PENNSYLVANIA

"Can't Do It by Cutting Off Heads," Says Pinchot at Conference Today.
Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 15.—Resolutions setting forth the principles of the Washington, or "Progressive," party, including the initiative to settle the question of the constitutionality of the constitutional convention, child labor and minimum wage laws, were adopted here today at the conference which has brought together 300 leaders from every county in the state. James A. Garfield, of Ohio, former secretary of the interior, spoke on the national movement of the "Progressives." He said the questions have been years in developing, but that they were being brought to popular attention everywhere. Clifford Pinchot was given a noisy greeting. He said Pennsylvania was the key of the political situation. Pennsylvania, he said, made Roosevelt's nomination possible and Wilson would never have been sent to the white house if Pennsylvania had not stood behind Roosevelt. He said: "What we are after is to clean up this state so that it will stay clean, and we can't do that by cutting off any man's head. We must destroy the system." A cablegram was sent to Col. Roosevelt, extending greetings and best wishes for his health.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in ill-ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (poison) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles in anemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain from the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by anemia. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.
